Media of private school aid called a threat to democracy

WASHINGTON—Federal education aid which excludes private schools would endanger the democratic tradition of pluralism in education, a Catholic legal expert warned.

George E. Reed, associate director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference Legal Department, stressed that "the very concept of democracy implies differences in philosophy, culture, religion and many other fundamental values."

"Democracy cannot afford to destroy these differences," he said. But he added that Federal aid which ignores private schools "would exclude one of every seven children from consideration."

"It stinks out and prefers one part of the American educational process on the other," he said. "This is dangerous. It is a danger to the civic community, for limit public assistance to public schools. Such legislation slowly but surely generates an economic pressure in the direction of a single school system. A sound approach to the current educational problem must recognize the diverse claims of all members of the community."

Mr. Reed said the March 3 statement on Federal aid made public by the NCWC Administrative Board of Bishops was "characterized by its reasonableness and moderate tone." He noted that the statement makes four points:

- 1) "That Catholics should take a position on Federal aid in accordance with an analysis of related economic and other pertinent facts." Mr. Reed said his part of the statement "unfortunately" has been "underplayed" by the press and other communications media.
- 2) "That in justice Catholic school children should be given the right to participate" in any program of general Federal aid to education. This has been the position taken by Catholic spokesmen for years, the NCWC official said.
- 3) That Catholic schools be granted long-term, low-interest loans. Mr. Reed described this as a "highly reasonable request" in view of the fact that the Federal government currently lends money to private colleges for dormitory construction and to private grade and high schools for scientific and foreign language equipment.
- 4) A plea to "oppose discrimination" in Federal aid by aiding all students alike. Mr. Reed said the opposition to discrimination encouraged by the Bishops "can take many forms, but certainly there is nothing in the document that implies a desire to kill Federal aid."

MR. REED declared that education freedom of choice in education is becoming "progressively obscured" by mounting financial pressures.

"Fifty per cent of Catholic parents cannot exercise this fundamental freedom because of the shortage of school facilities," he said. He added that it is futile to speak of "freedom" in education when economic pressures must at present be a matter of debate and should be settled by "sound principles."

"Indeed," he said, "the Federal aid question with its special relationship to the parental right may well prove to be the social yardstick that measures this generation's commitment to freedom."

The lawyer criticized the brief on aid to church schools made public in late March by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

He took exception to the brief's stand that across the board loans to private schools would be unimportant because they are the result of "measurable economic assistance" to such institutions. Such an attitude, he said, fails to reflect the constitutional mandate of neutrality required by Supreme Court in its 1952 Zorach ruling.

"The motion calling for government aid to parochial schools," presented by the association's Executive Council and withdrawn after sharp debate, said in part: "If the federal government chooses to allocate public funds as aid to education, it must, in justice, do so without discrimination. Since the obligation for education is primarily one for parents, the federal government can equitably help education by helping the parents of any child in any school."

DR. GERMAIN G. GRISZ, assistant professor of philosophy at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., led the opposition to this motion during the meeting.

"The issue is whether we are going to support the stand taken by the bishops. I don't support their stand for many reasons, which I do not think it profitable to discuss, and I don't think it appropriate for this association to commit itself to this position," he said.

DR. VERNON BOURKE, philosophy professor at St. Louis University, threatened to resign immediately "if the motion was approved, saying that 'this statement is committing us to things we don't know anything about as an association.'"

Rite planned
TELL CITY, Ind.—Representatives of the Tell City Deanship of Catholic Men will meet here on Friday, April 21, to finalize plans for a deanery-wide Corpus Christi celebration on June 4. The Corpus Christi observance will feature a procession Solemn Mass and sermon at the outdoor altar of St. Augustine's parish, Woodland.

Charles Hubbs, president of the Tell City council, will serve as general chairman.

U. S. HELP NEEDED

Catholic press is seen as Latin American key

WASHINGTON—There is an urgent need to strengthen the hand of Catholic press leaders in Latin America so that they can create an effective, up-to-date image of the Church throughout the area, a U.S. editor said here.

Father Albert J. Nevins, M.A., editor of Maryknoll magazine, warned that an outmoded view of the Church in Latin America can endanger the Church's work for social justice there at a time of swift and critical change. "Too many Latin American Catholics," he said, are left unaware of the 20th-century enterprises in which their Church is engaged.

Father Nevins, president of the Catholic Press Association of the United States and Canada, spoke on his return from a trip to the area as chairman of the CPA's Latin American Study Committee.

TODAY'S social ferment in Latin America, Father Nevins pointed out, is marked by rapid industrial expansion, widespread movement of masses of rural workers to the cities, population growth and the people's growing awareness of their needs and rights.

Communism, he said, is taking full advantage of the situation. He warned against any tendency to underrate Red efforts because Latin America has only relatively small communist parties. "The Reds, he continued, are spending vast sums of propaganda and are succeeding in infiltration attempts, especially among students."

Church leaders, he noted, are awake to the dangers facing the Church as a result of sweeping changes. Bishops' pastoral letters in a number of countries have stressed the need for radical social reforms, he said, and lay leaders too have proposed various solutions for pressing social problems.

This social awareness, Father Nevins reported, marks a great change in the attitude of Catholic leaders toward social problems. His last visit to Latin America in 1952.

But, he continued, the change has not yet filtered down to the mass of Catholic laymen. The Church is still handicapped, he went on, by the traditionalism of Catholics, whose image of the Church is based on views now generations out of date.

THE PEOPLE, he said, think of the Church as something set apart from everyday life and regard it only as a means for their personal salvation. They do not see the Church as a community whose members are responsible for one another, and they are unconscious of the new dangers facing the Church.

There is a real danger, he emphasized, that the Latin American masses will be de-Christianized and accept secularist solutions if they are not made aware of the Church's answers to the problems facing them.

Thus, he concluded, mass communications media like the Catholic press and radio must take the lead in updating the people's idea of the Church as a socially conscious community.

But the Catholic newspapers and radio stations available to create this new image and combat Red efforts are weak, Father Nevins said. The principal weaknesses, he reported, result from poor business practices and too little regard for professional journalistic competence.

ANOTHER weakness, Father Nevins pointed out, is the fact that in a large number of places there are too many papers, which means there are too numerous weak ones in a place that needs one strong one.

For this reason, he concluded, the CPA study committee is recommending that the press there be strengthened by consolidating and improving existing papers and such organizations as the Latin American Union of the Catholic Press.

Hoosier Archabbot asks 'entire Mass in English'

Permissiveness of the Holy See for the celebration of the entire Mass, including the Canon, in English was advocated by the Right Rev. Ignatius Esser, O.S.B., in an article appearing in the March issue of "Amen," official publication of the Veremar Society of America. He is a native of Rockport, Ind.

The writer, who for many years served as Abbot and Archabbot of St. Meinrad Archabbey and since his retirement has held the chancellor's post at St. Joseph's Convent, Tulsa, Okla., contends that "the Mass in English would win so many converts it would keep teachers busy for years giving convert instructions."

The full text of Archabbot Ignatius' article is as follows:

TIME WAS WHEN I would not have favored the change of the Mass from Latin to English. Then, later, I agreed with those who would have changed all but the Canon.

Now I am one hundred per cent for the whole Mass in English. Why speak of a liturgical language? All languages should be liturgical. Every bit of the Mass is so magnificent, so comforting, so consoling, so uplifting, that by clothing it in a language foreign to nearly all of our Faithful—foreign to most of our Faithful—I for one should love to sing and say the Mass in English—and in the Office too!

My guess is that the Mass in English would win so many converts it would keep teachers busy for years giving convert instructions.

ON FEBRUARY 28, 1956, I wrote a Bishop's Letter to Pope Pius XII, in which I asked him for the Mass in English. Herewith are some extracts from that letter. May God from heaven be well pleased to grant that request.

Latin is a very wonderful language for those who know it well. For the rest, it is a sealing of treasures. The Word of God was surely not intended to remain a sealed-up treasure.

I am convinced the English Mass would be a great boon for the Catholic Church. We should need a well-prepared translation of the magnificent Latin, and some special courses in education for the priests who sing and recite these messages of God to man. But—some of the time spent in learning Latin could be used in learning!

JOLIET, Ill.—For the first time six members have been appointed to the Joliet Catholic diocesan school board, it was announced here.

Teaching religious also were named to the board by Bishop McNamara who said he wanted to give representation to the laity and teaching brothers and nuns. The board previously was composed of seven priests.

Pope, Italian Premier in historic meeting

VATICAN CITY—Less than 100 years after the Papal States were wrested from the popes to complete the political unification of Italy, an Italian premier met a pope in formal audience marking the centenary of that unity.

His Holiness Pope John XXIII received Premier Amintore Fanfani of a state audience marked with full diplomatic and papal honors in the Vatican on April 11.

Italy's unification is generally dated to 1861 although another nine years elapsed before troops took what remained of the thousand-year-old Papal States from defenseless Pope Pius IX.

Mr. Fanfani's audience, coming as it did during the centenary celebrations of Italian unification, symbolized the tremendous change that has come about in the modern world where the papacy is no longer a temporal force but stands preeminent as a symbol and promise of the moral and supernatural authority which is above all nations.

While the Vatican laid no stress on the centennial celebrations in its official announcement of the audience, honors accorded to Mr. Fanfani and the Pope's own words before troops took what remained of the thousand-year-old Papal States from defenseless Pope Pius IX.

Mr. Fanfani's audience, coming as it did during the centenary celebrations of Italian unification, symbolized the tremendous change that has come about in the modern world where the papacy is no longer a temporal force but stands preeminent as a symbol and promise of the moral and supernatural authority which is above all nations.

Terre Haute will host annual ACCW parley

TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—More than 500 women are expected here on Sunday and Monday, April 16 and 17, for the 23rd annual convention of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women. Also in attendance will be pastors and ACCW spiritual delegates from the eight deaneries of the Archdiocese. An estimated 150 delegates will attend from the Indianapolis Deanery alone.

Theme for the convention, which will open with the annual Board Meeting at 2:30 p.m. (slow time) Sunday, in the Downing Hotel, will be "The Catholic Woman Today." Mrs. Russell Wilson, Clinton, ACCW president, will preside. The annual Board Dinner will follow at 5:30 p.m.

THE CONVENTION proper will open with a joint Civic Meeting in the Schulte High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening, at which Mr. John F. P. Murphy, personnel director of Charles Pitzer and Co., and a member of St. Patrick's parish here, will be the featured speaker. His address will be based on the general convention theme. The Schulte Glee Club will provide musical entertainment at the Civic Meeting, which will be open to the general public.

Committee workshops are scheduled from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. on Monday morning at the Terre Haute House.

THE WORK of two of the ACCW committees—Rural Life and Retreats—will receive special emphasis at the General Meeting from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in St. Benedict's Auditorium. Principal speaker will be Father Edward W. O'Rourke, executive secretary of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference. Father Raymond Moll, Archdiocesan Rural Life Director and ACCW

FATHER O'ROURKE

FATHER MORIARTY

MRS. WILSON

Rural Life Moderator, is also scheduled to speak.

Father James Moriarty, director of Fatima Retreat House, will discuss the subject of Retreats. As an adjunct to Father Moriarty's talk, a group of delegates from the Indianapolis Deanery will present a statement filed in his behalf with the House Committee on Education and Labor by Lawrence X. Cusack, counsel for the New York archdiocese and editor of The Fordham Law Review.

Included among the recommendations were giving parochial school children non-religious texts and educational services, grants or other benefits to parents, loans to schools and assistance to the schools' non-religious facilities.

Mr. Cusack maintained there was a "large grey area of constitutionality" in which Congress is at liberty to enact a program of federal aid which would provide equal treatment for children attending church-related schools. But, he added, any constitutional impermissibility involved would be left for decision by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Pope will use Byzantine Rite

VATICAN CITY—His Holiness Pope John XXIII is scheduled to use the Byzantine Rite rather than Latin in consecrating Father Antonio Coussa an archbishop on April 16.

Archbishop-designate Coussa, Assessor of the Sacred Congregation for the Oriental Church since 1953, has been named titular Archbishop of Hierapolis in Syria. The Pope himself is consecrating him during a Solemn Liturgy (Mass) in the Sistine Chapel on the second Sunday after Easter. The Pope, as head of the Universal Church, can offer Mass in any rite he chooses.

Six draw fines on smut charges

BALTIMORE—Judge Anselm Sodaro found six local newsstand operators guilty of offering obscene magazines for sale and fined them $200 each.

The judge said he had applied "contemporary community standards" to the material in the case, in accordance with the test of obscenity set by the U.S. Supreme Court.

LENENT DRIVE

BERLIN—West German Catholics raised more than $125 million during Lent for the German hierarchy's drive against hunger and sickness, boosting the total amount collected so far to about $215 million, it was reported here.

Music for missions—Peace Corps—Hits colonialism

THE VATICAN

A new department to foster sacred music in mission lands is being organized here by the Pontifical Institute of Sacred Music, according to Msgr. Igino Angles, president of the institute.

Pope John XXIII has raised the Ethiopian Rite Apostolic Exarchate of Addis Ababa to the rank of an archdiocese. He has appointed Bishop Asrate Mariani, member of the Exarchate of Asmara, Ethiopia, to be the archbishop of the See.

Auxiliary Bishop Alfredo Mueller y San Martin of Havana has been named Bishop of Cienfuegos, Cuba, by the Holy Father. The prelate has been Apostolic Administrator of Cienfuegos since 1960.

Two Maronite Rite prelates have been named members of the Preparatory Commission for the Oriental Church for the coming ecumenical council. They are Archbishop Ignace Ziate of Beirut and Bishop Michael Dounih of Sarba. Named a consultant to the commission was Bishop Boleslav Sloskans, exiled Apostolic Administrator of the Minsk diocese and the Holy archdiocese in the Soviet Union.

Pope John has set up 11 new dioceses in Argentina and raised two dioceses to the rank of archdioceses. In Buenos Aires, the Argentine Senate has been asked by President Arturo Frondizi to pass legislation legalizing the new Sees. The Senate has the right to pass on the creation of new dioceses under the so-called "patronato" laws.

The new elevator in St. Peter's basilica was put into operation for the first time on Easter. The elevator, designed by the architect of the basilica, the elevator can accommodate 20 passengers in contrast to the former load of 14 persons. The elevator, installed during the reign of Pope St. Pius X, had been in visitors for 50 years. It carried visitors to the roof of the church.

WASHINGTON — A Catholic spokesman here responded enthusiastically to announcement by the Peace Corps that it plans to cooperate with U.S. private voluntary agencies in overseas assistance.

ROSARIO — Delegates to the 1961 Catholic Social Week here called for rural industrialization, vocational training and increased social aid to alleviate the plight of Argentina's farmers. "We have two Argentinas," the resolutions declared. "The rich economic, social and cultural resources, and another so poor that it scarcely rises above the level of a pastoral economy. We must integrate these two into one strong, wholesome and happy nation."

AUGUSTA — A measure sponsored by Protestant minister-legislator to cancel tax exemptions for churches, educational, charitable and scientific institutions in Maine was characterized as "separation of Church and State in reverse" by State Sen. Edward J. Cyr. The Senator told the taxation committee of the Maine legislature at a hearing on the bill the measure is a "dangerous departure from democratic principles." The bill was introduced by Rep. Ernest D. Smith.

BUENOS AIRES — Cardinal Juan Manuel Rosendo, here, said that the Marxist policies of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's regime are a serious threat to all American nations. The Archbishop of Buenos Aires said in his Easter sermon: "We fulfill a duty of Catholic and American brotherhood in denouncing the policies and aims of the Cuban revolution as contrary to the peace and dignity of the life of the American people."

LUANDA, Angola — Church authorities here said they regret the arrest of Msgr. Manuel Mendes das Neves by Portuguese police but added that they are unprepared to comment on it pending a full inquiry into the charges against the priest. He is not in a position to get involved in a political matter. The 70-year-old, part-Portuguese priest, who is vice-governor of the Angolan archdiocese, was arrested March 21 on a charge of sedition. He was accused of being responsible for sedition pamphlets circulated during the mid-March riots in this Portuguese African territory in which African tribesmen killed some 200 whites. The missionary, who has been sent to Portugal by airplane, has long been known for separatist ideas.

NEW DELHI — A Catholic priest active in a movement to gain independence for Goa and other Portuguese possessions in the Indian sub-continent assailed Portugal's claims to the colonies in the name of Christianity. "The history of Christianity in India is older than the history of Portugal," Father H. C. Mascarenhas declared in a speech before a convocation of the Indian Campaign Group for Liberation of Goa. The priest was convention chairman. Although noting that the Goans showed no ill will towards the Portuguese, Father Mascarenhas asserted that until they "liberalized" themselves and "quit" their motherland in India, the struggle for independence would continue.

TAIPEI — Catholic officials here view the decision of Pope John XXIII to erect three new dioceses for Formosa as stemming from the notable progress of the Church here in recent years. The erection of the dioceses of Hsinchu, Kaohsiung and Tainan, gives the island seven church jurisdictions instead of five. The three new dioceses have suffragan bishops. The Archdiocese of Taipei, erected in 1952. In the past 10 years the number of Catholics in Formosa has grown from less than 20,000 to about 200,000.

PALERMO, Italy — Sicily's Bishops have urged the Italian government to give equal support to private and public schools. They say the third regional board of bishops to three months to call on Italy's government for state aid to Catholic schools. Earlier statements were issued by the Bishops of Pescara and Romagna. In a joint pastoral letter the Sicilian Bishops said it is the duty of the government to guarantee freedom of education by juridical and economic equality to state and non-state schools. "They spoke as Italy's Parliament is considering a bill to give private schools a subsidy equal to 80 per cent of the funds paid for public school support."

LONDON — Cardinal William Goffrey, Archbishop of Westminster, has praised the ideals of the British Commonwealth, which, he said, places it in the ranks of "those who acknowledge God and have respect for His beliefs." This was the cardinal's first reference to the British Commonwealth since South Africa withdrew from it in the wake of criticism of its apartheid (racial segregation) policy at the recent Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference here. Noting what he called "the distinguished role" in the world, he said there were other nations who, on the contrary, respect neither the laws of God nor the rights of man.

WARSAW — Key members of the Polish United Workers' Communist Party have been instructed to modify their policy toward the Catholic Church in this country so as to avoid existing Church-State relations. At the same time, they have been told that government will not relax measures which Church authorities have denounced as anti-religious persecution. These measures have included the abolition of religious instruction in 80 per cent of the state schools, heavy tax demands on the Catholic University of Lublin, the spread of anti-Church propaganda, and censorship of libraries in seminaries.

A leader of the small group of Catholic deputies in the last Polish parliament took issue with other Catholic leaders who have opposed the deputies' decision to seek re-election. General elections are being held April 16. Stanislaw Stomma, writing in a Cracow Catholic paper, contradicted the critics' view that Catholic deputies exert no influence on the parliament or the laws it promulgates. He conceded that the Catholic deputies actually have very little influence, because "the country is really governed" by the Polish United Workers Party. However, he argued that the parliament fulfills an advisory role in economic and political decisions, and Catholic deputies "can exert some, though small, influence."

VALLETTA, Malta — The Bishops of Malta have forbidden the sacraments to former Premier Dom Mintoff and other Maltese Labor party leaders who approved the party's recent attack on the Church and the clergy. A week before imposing the censure, Archbishop Michele Gattai of Malta warned the editors of two Labor party newspapers he would invoke the ecclesiastical penalties which canon law imposes unless they stopped attacking the Church.

TORONTO, Ont. — Education without religion threatens to destroy civilization, and in Ontario children will be robbed of their birthright if religious education is removed from the public schools, delegates to the annual Ontario Education Association convention were told here. The theory subject received thorough treatment from speakers including Laureen Ruzambwa, Bishop of Bukoba, Tanganyika, to preside at official services marking Brazil's national holiday on September 7.

PLAN VARIETY SHOW—The Little Flower Junior CYO will present a variety show at 8 p.m. Sunday, April 16, in the parish hall. Featuring a Hollywood background, the production is entitled "A Day at M.G.M." Taking the role of the director will be Bill (Cecil B. De) Cook, left. Others are, left to right: Cathy Heitmann, CYO cultural chairman; Tom Aldrich, CYO unit president, who has a singing role; and Mrs. Peter Corsaro, adult adviser. The public is invited. LONDON — British Catholics are objecting to the distribution through the national health service of pills which can be used for birth prevention. All adult British Catholics have to pay weekly contributions to their salaries toward the running of the health service and some are protesting that this money is sometimes used for an immoral purpose.

PRIMATE INVITED — BRASILIA, Brazil — President Janio Quadros is inviting Cardinal Laurent Rugambwa, Bishop of Bukoba, Tanganyika, to preside at official services marking Brazil's national holiday on September 7.

ABBOT GENERAL ANSWERS

Why American men become Trappists

By VINCENT MALLON, M.M. LIMA, Peru — American men make good Trappist monks, according to the abbot who heads the Trappist Order. Abbot M. Gabriel Sostais, O.C.S., Abbot General of the 4,327 member Order of Cistercians of the Strict Observance, said that the Trappists of the U.S. are equal to their European counterparts. He gave three reasons: They are basically simple; they are generous; and they are practical in their direct approach to God.

Abbot Gabriel said he has been asking the same questions of members of his order, and has received a great variety of replies. The only real explanation for the recent Trappist expansion, he said, is the grace of God.

Eighteen years ago there were 17 Trappist monasteries in the United States, the Abbot recalled. Today there are twelve with 1,200 monks — over one-quarter of the whole order — plus one monastery of Trappist nuns. Many Trappists believe that World War II contributed to the growth, but substantially, to the growth.

grace of God that keep him here, the Abbot said.

Abbot Gabriel believes that the number of Trappist vocations in America is far out of proportion to the maturity of American Catholicism and the religious depth of American Catholic family life. He did not develop this point.

HE SAID THAT American vocations to the monastic life suffer from two great temptations. First, every American has "a little of the businessman in him, and this propensity sometimes comes to the fore even after he has been wearing the monastic garb for years."

Second, Americans are greatly attracted by physical comforts, and their idea of the minimum comforts necessary for sustaining human life are appreciably higher than those of Europeans. But the fact is, the Abbot General said, "that American monks are on a par with their European counterparts." He said the reason is threefold. An analysis of the American monastic spirit is evidently a favorite theme with Abbot Gabriel, because he warned of this subject and discussed it at great length.

AMERICANS are basically simple people. They are simple in the sense that they are guileless and open by nature. They are honest with themselves and straightforward with others and that provides a natural basis for simplicity in their approach to God.

In the second place, Americans are generous. They give without counting the cost. They do not measure when they give, but pour out their goods until it overflows. They are outstretched hands of others.

This quality is a primary requisite for the monastic life, the Trappist Abbot explained. With it the American can overcome his natural inclination to seek bodily comforts, because when he gives himself to a cause, he gives himself completely. The idea of "divine abandonment" is instinctive in the American and explains much of his success in the contemplative life.

Thirdly, the American is intuitive rather than logical in his spiritual processes. He is as much interested in the mechanics of arriving at the truth as in the arrival itself. He has both a mania and a facility for piercing the heart of a problem. This accounts in part for his reputation as a "practical man." But on the spiritual level it enables him to go directly to God, the Abbot said.

Whose world?

Mort Sahl, comedian, says, "I wish I had a cause, because I have a lot of enthusiasms. Douglas Hyde, ex-Communist, says, "The Communist is trying to change the world and is dedicated enough to do it." Cause, cause, who's got a cause?

the search for summer jobs. Summer is no "vacation" for thousands and thousands of teenagers in the U.S. and throughout the world. It is a time for a lot of them to try their hand at "making a living."

They say if won't be easy this summer. True. But they've been saying that the same ones that worked last summer will be at it again come June. And the same old bunch of beach-combers will be sitting it out on the hot sand.

Where can a fellow work these days? Try the old familiar places: first-class gas stations, grocery stores, gardening concerns, city parks, dairies (a milkman gets out, however), day camps, office buildings, post offices, golf clubs and churches. If you're turned down, it doesn't mean there's something wrong with you. Employers respect you for trying. Don't get discouraged. There wouldn't be many baseball players found if one quite after every strike-out. Keep swinging.

How ABOUT that camp you attended a couple of years ago? Would they want you as a counselor? Are there any resorts where you might board with a friend, and lullaby at a restaurant? Does your high school or parish school need some extra work done on the floors and lockers now that school is finished? Can you work for yourself in the lawn-cutting business? Car washing? Magazine selling? Remembering to get your resume.

There is work for you someplace. Don't stop trying to find it. Get some help. There's nothing that "boss" you can't ask your father for help. Take the pay that's offered even if it's a minimum. It's that much more per hour than you get for standing out there.

You are, unskilled labor. Don't expect miracles of yourself or your employer. There's enough for now. Here's something to think about. Everyone knows that there are a lot of family men out there who want to work. Should you accept a job that is usually reserved for a breadwinner?

Or: what will you do if you find yourself in a job where you can't help others act decently, or where you even prefer sure you will have to go against your own ideas on a decent way of life? Would you take this sort of job?

Bloomington girl elected to head CYO

More than 550 delegates, including 535 high school students, swarmed over Secunia High School and Holy Cross parish this past weekend for the highly successful Fourth Annual Junior CYO Archdiocesan Convention, completing their business Saturday afternoon with the election of Susie Carter, St. Charles of Bloomington, to the Archdiocesan Council Presidency.

Called to serve with Blanche, the first girl elected to the highest CYO post in the Archdiocese, were Carol Schwacke, St. Mary, New Vernon, First Vice-president; Bill Hoch, St. Andrew of Richmond, Second Vice-president; Mary McMahon, Our Lady of Lourdes, Indianapolis, Secretary. The convention voting delegates also chose as their platform for the year "the promoting and stimulation of Youth Councils at all three levels... Archdiocesan, Deanery, and Parish."

THE ROGER GRAHAM Awards for the outstanding Junior CYO boy and girl in the Archdiocese, as announced by Father John Elford at the Convention Banquet Saturday night, went to Elaine Patterson, St. Charles of Bloomington, retiring First Vice-president of the Council, and Joseph Hoch, St. Andrew of Richmond, President and secretary of the year in deanery and Archdiocesan Council CYO affairs. The two recipients were selected by Father Patterson, St. Charles of Bloomington, and the seventy directors from a field of nine candidates presented for consideration by the deaneries.

Archdiocesan President, presented attractive statuettes of St. John Bosco, Patron of Youth, in his outgoing fellow officers: Miss Patterson, Tony Copler, New Albany, Second Vice-president; Carol Schwacke, North Vernon, Secretary. Father Elford also awarded Tony a duplicate statuette, mounted on a black wood base, in recognition of his accomplishments as President.

FATHER MICHAEL CODY, C.F.M., Rector of the Claretian Seminary at Monmense, Ill., key-noted the convention at Friday's opening session with his excellent talk on "Social Pressures," which was selected as the theme of the three-day party. Deanery caucuses Friday night were followed by the social mixer in the Secunia Cafeteria featuring Bob Morrison, WXLW, as deejay.

Saturday was highlighted by the Convention Dialogue Mass, celebrated by Archbishop Schulte, the elections session, an address by Father George Powers, pastor of St. Leonard's, West Terre Haute, remarks by the Archbishop at the banquet, and the climactic social event, the Convention Dance, for which the excellent Secunia Dance Band provided the tunes. For the major part of the day, delegates spent their time attending 11 excellent panel discussion sessions on a variety of topics ranging from Racial Prejudice to Radio and Television in Teenage Life.

SUNDAY'S closing spiritual exercise, Mass and a Communion Breakfast at Holy Cross, drew a crowd of 550 to hear Miss Barbara Hill, past Archdiocesan Youth Council President and currently a Student Nurse at St. Vincent's Hospital, present a verbal picture of the last National Catholic Youth Convention at Kansas City, Father Elford thanked all the delegates for their exemplary conduct during the party and encouraged them to take the "valuable lessons learned at Secunia" back to their parishes, so that the CYO movement could continue its organized growth. Tony Watt, retiring Council President, acted as Toastmaster at the Breakfast.

Priest's life a challenge, Pope tells seminarians

VATICAN CITY—His Holiness Pope John XXIII led a group of Italian seminarians that they must prepare to live in a real world, not an ideal one. "Today," he said, "a seminarian's life is not a preparation for a service that one can perform in an ideal or dream world. We to you if you think that way. You will be heading toward bitter disappointment."

THE TRUE priest of the Lord," Pope John continued, "does not live according to un-realizable dreams of earthly happiness, comfort or ease. He, like all priests now as always, "have to fight to remain safe in the Faith and in charity."

School rehearsal sessions to prep Songfest singers

With only one Children's Chorus rehearsal scheduled for the 1961 Parochial School Songfest, Father Edwin Sahn and Mr. Edward Krieger, Directors of the 6,000 voice group, announced a series of brief rehearsals with selected school groups to insure a smooth operation at the big practice session April 29. Father Sahn also announced plans for rehearsal of the 400-voice Boys' Choir, which will perform Widor's "Tantum Ergo" at the Songfest on Sunday, April 29.

The schedule for school visits, as announced by Father Sahn, is as follows: Thursday, April 26—Sacred Heart, 9:30 a.m.; St. Mark, 10:30 a.m.; Holy Name, 1 p.m.; Tuesday, April 25—Holy Family, 9:30 a.m.; St. Ann, 10:45 a.m.; Thursday, April 27—St. Philip Neri, 9:30 a.m.; Little Flower, 10:30 a.m.; St. Lawrence, 11 a.m. Father Sahn said that only portions of the program will be rehearsed, to insure that most groups have a good working knowledge of the varied Songfest program.

The Boys' Choir, representing some 13 parishes which use boy soprano groups on a regular basis, will meet for its "pre-rehearsal" session in the auditorium at K of C Council 437, Friday, April 28, as part of the general rehearsal.

GRADE SCHOOL BANDSMEN—The 50-piece combined band of Christ the King and neighboring St. Pius X Schools will participate in the regional division of the Indiana School Music Association annual competition tomorrow, April 15, at Broad Ripple High School in Indianapolis. Thirty pupils of Sister M. Adkins, O.S.B., St. Pius X, and 20 of Sister M. Margaret, O.S.B., Christ the King, compose the group. They will compete against 11 other bands in class G of the competition. (Staff photo)

Serious Division slated for One-Act Play openers

The elimination rounds in the 1961 Junior CYO One-Act Play Contest start coming thick-and-fast next week, as the Serious Division begins competition and the surviving Comedies move into their second round battles, which include the first appearances of the three out-of-town deaneries.

St. Michael and St. Philip Neri will open the Serious Division tomorrow (Saturday) at St. Michael, 8:30 p.m. Three first-round eliminations in the Division are slated for Sunday, April 16, at Holy Spirit, St. Michael, and Immaculate Heart. The last of the first-round pairings finds Immaculate Heart hosting Nativity Monday, April 17, 8 p.m.

THE TERRE HAUTE deanery competition is to be held on the Schulte High School stage Thursday, April 20. The three contestants are St. Ann, St. Margaret Mary-St. Benedict, and St. Patrick. Starting time is 7:30 p.m. (Terre Haute time).

THIRD ROUND pairings match the three Indianapolis Comedy survivors against Richmond, St. Mary-Michael of Madison, and Terre Haute winners, with two contests slated at St. Mary of Richmond and Schulte High School, Terre Haute, the third at St. Catherine in Indianapolis. The finals follow on Friday, April 28, at Holy Spirit, 7:30 p.m.

Coaches to meet Thursday, Apr. 20

Coaches and Priest Managers of teams in the Cadet Spring Kickball and Spring Baseball leagues, plus mentors planning center squads in the city-wide Girls' and Boys' Track meets, have been invited to the annual Coaches' meeting for these sports on Thursday, April 20, at the CYO Office, 1602 West 16th St. at 7:30 p.m.

The mentors for parishes in the city-wide track meets have been included in the meeting, according to CYO officials, because of the necessity for a gathering to settle such matters as meet dates, events, assigning of officials, individual and team awards, etc. Also, since a regular meeting of the boys' dual meet coaches held through they will be invited to go over items of interest to future dual meet seasons.

Junior kickball league opens Sunday

The Junior CYO girls weren't satisfied with only one season in their favorite sport. So, they got their wish, and 15 teams start regular competition Sunday in the first Junior Spring Kickball League.

Heading the list are the fall league champions from St. Catherine. They'll be joined by Immaculate Heart's runners-up and the third placers, St. Joan of Arc. The schedule continues, with games scheduled mostly on Sundays, through Sunday, May 21. League play-offs will follow the regular season. Two exceptions have been made to the Sunday play set-up. One round of contests is planned for Wednesday, April 26 (in order to keep the league from running into June and graduation conflicts); another is slated for Saturday, April 29, to avoid conflict with the Songfest.

Few openings left on camp schedule

The camp situation remained about the same at the CYO Office this week. Reservations are still being accepted for all six weeks of the Boys' Pioneer Village at Rancho Framosa, for the last two periods at Camp Christina, for the first and third periods of the Girls' Pioneer Village.

At this writing, about six places still are available in the regular week for boys that was added to the schedule after applications were sent out—August 27-September 2.

Applications for the waiting list are also being accepted by the CYO Office.

He can't get a date!

Dear Miss Culklin:

I would like your advice on a problem I have. I can't seem to get a date. Every time I ask a girl to go out she looks at me and tells me "no" in a flat voice. All the kids make fun of me. Could you tell me what is the proper way to ask a girl for a date? Please print the answer in your newspaper column. Thank you.

P.J.

Dear P.J.:

If you are of good reputation, neat in appearance and gentlemanly in your conduct, I am at a loss. Perhaps there is one girl in your own group who could be more helpful. This girl should be one who is known for her kindness and one whom you never asked for a date. Develop this girl's friendship and then ask her if she would be frank in telling you the reasons she feels you are consistently refused dates.

As for the proper way to ask for a date, P.J., it isn't in front of a large group of people. Your inconsiderate friends wouldn't have had an opportunity to make fun of you if you planned the girl or personally asked for the date without an audience. Remember too that a girl likes a boy to be specific. Your approach should be to ask her if she would like to see a certain movie, attend a particular party, or go to a certain place. Good luck to you.

Dear V.C.:

I am not printing your letter because I think the contents would establish identity. I can appreciate your mother's feelings that you should enjoy mixed teenage parties even though you feel that you have a vocation to the sisterhood. But I can also appreciate the feeling of your teacher (and you feels that your vocation might be lost if you participate in what your mother insists is an important phase of your life. Certainly you are tired of "being pushed around" to quote you, but I can't understand why you haven't discussed your problem much earlier with the most logical person with whom a vocation should be discussed; namely, a priest.

Entering the monastery in 1957, Brothers Giles Maloney, O.S.B., Lambert Zink, O.S.B., Patrick Owens, O.S.B., Kim Malloy, O.S.B., and Anselm Clark, O.S.B., made their profession of perpetual vows on April 16, 1958.

Three of the Brothers served in the Army before entering the Archabbey — Brothers Lambert, Patrick, and Anselm. Brother Giles is from Peoria, Ill.; Brother Lambert, Lancaster, Ohio; Brother Patrick, Flint, Mich.; Brother Kim, Muncie, Ind.; and Brother Anselm, Brooklyn, N.Y.

My advice to you is the same as it would be to any young woman or man who feels he has been blessed with a vocation and that is to see a priest without delay.

Dear Miss Culkin: Will you please write something about the importance of using deodorants. If you do, here's my hope: every freshman in high school will read it!

Can't Understand Dear Can't Understand:

Do you mind if I direct your suggestion to all high school girls and not only to freshmen? A deodorant is an important part of a "groomed" kit. And please don't risk saving on your allowance by using your mother's. It is quite possible that her choice of deodorant would prove effective for her, but it doesn't necessarily follow that it would prove effective for you. The reason is that the chemistry of one body can differ from that of another. He smart by experimenting with many brands before deciding on your favorite one. Once you have found it... use it!

Hospital Sisters to note 50th Jubilee on April 15

Two Sisters of St. Francis Seraph of Perpetual Adoration, serving at St. Francis Hospital in Beech Grove, will observe their 50th Jubilee in religion with special ceremonies Saturday, April 15, in the hospital.

Archbishop Schulte will preside at a Solemn Mass offered by Father Robert Hartman, pastor of Holy Name parish, at 9:30 a.m. in the hospital chapel. Sister Philip Neri parish, will deliver the sermon.

The jubiliarians are Sister M. Julia, O.S.F., and Sister Baptista, O.S.F., who have served a total of 80 years as registered nurses. Sister M. Julia, a native of Ottoville, Ohio, has been on the staff of St. Francis Hospital since 1957, as supervisor in the clinical laboratory. She also served for seven years at St. Anthony's Hospital, Terre Haute, among other assignments.

In addition to her nursing license, Sister M. Julia holds a license of the National Board of Medical Technologists. She is a member of the American Society of Medical Technologists.

Sister Baptista, a native of Kansas City, Kansas, holds a degree in nursing. She has served at St. Francis Hospital as floor supervisor since 1946. Prior to that she held similar positions in hospitals of the community in Indiana, Nebraska and Tennessee.

Movies and Television

In The Sundowners, director Fred Zinnemann has brought the same sensitive touch that distinguished The Noon Stays in an altogether different picture. One for most American audiences should prove a refreshing novelty in background story and character. Teamed for the first time since the memorable Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison, Robert Mitchum and Deborah Kerr play the least glamorous roles of their careers as a weather-beaten Irish-Australian couple, who with their adolescent son, travel the Australian bush country in a flimsy covered wagon from one temporary job to the next, camping wherever they happen to be at sundown (hence the title). Her dreams of a permanent home seem attainable when they find work at a sheep-shearing station, she as cook, he as supposedly an expert shearer, but nothing can ease his wanderlust. Peter Liston and Glenn Jones are outstanding as two of the most colorful people they meet, but the whole film has a pleasantly relaxed quality totally free of "glamour."

Boston Catholic weekly hits John Birch Society

BOSTON — The Pilot, news-weekly of the Boston archdiocese, has editorially berated the controversial John Birch Society as "a good thing gone wrong."

An ultra-conservative, anti-Communist organization, the Birch Society was founded in 1958 by Robert H. W. Welch, Jr., a Baptist layman who is a retired candy manufacturer of Belmont, Mass. It was named for Captain John Birch, a former Baptist missionary, who served as a liaison officer for Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault in World War II. Capt. Birch was killed by Chinese Communists some ten days after V-J Day.

Backers of the Society have described it as a basically pro-American organization dedicated to fighting Communism within the United States. It has some 100 branches in 34 states.

CRITICS of the group have accused its founder of defaming President Eisenhower and other prominent Americans as Communist sympathizers. These accusations stem mainly from a "confidential" paper (sometimes called a book) written by Mr. Welch six years before the founding of the Birch Society.

Its critics also have accused the Society for allegedly repudiating all U.S. social reforms of the last 30 years, in effect, of working "to repeal the 20th Century."

The Society is reportedly backing a "write your Congressman" campaign for the impeachment of Chief Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren because of his civil rights decisions. This has led to demands in Congress for an investigation of the Birch operations. Some officials of the U.S. Justice Department have expressed "concern in the matter."

THE PILOT editorial stressed that in an authentic anti-Communist effort "there is no place for hysteria, exaggeration or misrepresentation."

Describing the Birch Society as "unbalanced, excited and definitely out of focus," the editorial stated:

"The lessons which can be profitably drawn from such an endeavor — a good thing gone wrong — are many and should not be lost on thoughtful observers. "In protecting ourselves against Communism, we should be careful that we do not fall into evils almost as bad. It is possible to escape the dogs only to perish in the swamp."

THE EDITORIAL noted that "people of goodwill and even 'progressives' who are willing to support a genuine anti-Communist movement" have very little to turn to, and it is not to be wondered at if some of them are caught up by the promise of organizations like the Birch clubs.

Citing the need for a "highly estimable group of American intellectuals" who could speak and act with a balanced view on Communism, The Pilot proposed that such a group supply materials for study by adults and young people.

"On the other hand, we must deplore the exaggeration and excesses which discredit even a good thing. Anyone who suggests that our former President, Mr. Eisenhower, promoted Communist causes, is speaking in absurdities. Statements like these do not assist honest efforts to resist the spread of Communism and alert people to its genuine dangers."

The Rev. William F. Graney writes:

"The present passing of the John Birch Society is taking in print is deserved and fortunate.

"It was a lucky break that founder Robert Welch went beyond the bounds of shrewdness and labeled Dwight D. Eisenhower a Communist."

The priest said publicly on the group "ought to help us recall that a famous dictator of our era, one Adolf Hitler, also made quite a name for himself as an anti-Communist."

"He (Hitler) started in the same way, by forming a 'patriotic' secret society."

Your Holiness has already done so many grand and wonderful things for us, especially in connection with the liturgy. I hope to think that St. Pius X brought the people closer to Christ through frequent Communion, and Pius XII will bring Christ closer to the people through the vernacular in Holy Mass.

If our dear Lord mingled among people in Italy today, he surely would speak Italian. If he mingled among us in the United States, He surely would speak English. But the Mystical Body of Christ is here, constantly using an interpreter because so few of our people understand Latin. I long to see the day when the Altar Christe at the Altar, with microphones in large churches, without it in small churches, will plainly, directly speak to the people the genius of thought from the Missal, so that all will drink in the language of the Mystical Christ and be able to respond. What an easy and direct union of thought, and communion of body. How concerts will flock to the Church.

If an experiment is desired, I for one should love to have the privilege of saying Mass in English—the entire Mass.

Ignatius Esser, O.S.B., Archabbot

Cite Latin role in seminaries

An article in the March 23rd issue of "Osservatore Romano," Vatican City daily, stresses the importance of Latin in the education of priests.

Statements by Pope Pius X, Pope Pius XI and Pope Pius XII relative to the importance of Latin are cited in the article, which is entitled: "Latin, the Language of the Church."

Regarding the use of the vernacular, the article states that, despite the Church's esteem for Latin, she has always given encouragement to the use of local languages and cultures outside the liturgy.

Bishops defend right to criticize

MADRID — Freedom of the press was defended by a Catholic bishop who stressed that this involves the right of citizens to criticize the government.

In a pastoral letter, excerpts from which were published by newspapers here, Bishop Juan Herrvas y Benet, Prelate Nullius of Ciudad Real, declared that limitations on freedom of the press must not be arbitrary, but must be fixed by law.
